

Abstract

[illegible]

Figures in brackets show the percentage of respondents who were asked the question. The number of respondents who answered the question was 100.

These results demonstrate that not only the temperature dependence (Figure 1) during storage, but also the rate of polymerization (Figure 2) is sensitive to the storage temperature. Thus, the higher the storage temperature, the less polymerization occurred at other things, as in Figure 3. This is a very important result for the study of the polymerization of the monomer.

1. The first step is to identify the problem or question that needs to be answered. This involves understanding the context and the specific requirements of the task.
